12 steps, 12 traditions and 12 concepts

Step 5

Admitted to God, to ourselves, and another human being the exact nature of our wrongs.

Tradition 5 (short form)

Each group has but one primary purpose— to carry the message to the alcoholic who still suffers.

Concept 5(short form)

Throughout our structure, a traditional “Right of Appeal” ought to prevail, so that minority opinion will be heard and personal grievances receive careful consideration.

Hello friends! We are officially almost halfway through the year. This month, we would like to give a special shout out to DAWN PATROL. (Good Shepard Church in Wailuku- Monday through Friday at 630a)

It is one of the oldest meetings on the island. Big thank you to Ashley K who coordinated the submissions to make this Maui Serenity Gazette possible. Big Mahalo for practicing Tradition 5 and carrying the message to our island Fellowship!

As always we welcome your submissions about recovery, please email info@aamaui.org.

"Pueo"

By anonymous

It was March 15, 2025. I got to the church hall early that morning to help set up for my home group, Dawn Patrol. The rain had just stopped, leaving the pavement dark and glistening under the streetlights. As I opened the back door to the hall, I saw it—a small, hunched figure near the threshold. Its golden eyes were looking straight at me while it stayed completely still. A Pueo. It was bleeding, and its wing was clearly broken.

My heart pounded, unsure if it was fear or reverence. The Pueo is sacred to our people. An ‘aumakua, a protector. And here it was, wounded, just outside our meeting place.

I hesitated. I didn't know if I should touch it, but I knew I couldn't leave it there, vulnerable to predators in the area. A few years ago, I might have ignored it, or not even seen it. A year ago, I might have been too lost in my own darkness to recognize a sign when I saw one. Because that's what this was. A sign. The Pueo comes when guidance is needed, when someone has strayed too far from the path. The Kupuna say that if a Pueo crosses your path, you better pay attention—change is coming, whether you're ready or not.

As I stood there, the members of the Dawn Patrol began to arrive. They rallied around the Pueo, careful not to touch it, their faces filled with quiet reverence. The moment was thick with the Queen's Aloha, an unspoken understanding of the sacredness before us. Phones were brought out, and professionals were called in to help the fallen warrior. Of course, a few pictures were taken as well.

As I walked back into the church, my thoughts drifting to my own brokenness, the nights I had spent outside, shivering and lost, until someone found me and told me I didn't have to fight alone. There was in fact a solution. This bird, this guardian, had been brought low just like I had been. And just like me, it needed time, care, and a safe place to heal. At some point during the meeting, the Pueo miraculously entered the hall seeking refuge while awaiting rescue and, as I like to think, listening to our ohana sharing experience, strength, and hope with each other.

It reminded me of Step 5: "Admitted to God, to ourselves, and to another human being the exact nature of our wrongs." That moment of honesty, of allowing ourselves to be seen in our wounded truth, is where healing begins. The Pueo didn't hide its pain. It let itself be found. And we, gathered around it, offered what we could—presence, compassion, and the willingness to help. In doing so, I was reminded of my own vulnerability and the strength that comes from owning it. Dawn Patrol provided our wounded warrior with same thing we offer to each other, to newcomer, and to visitors who find our ohana.

As I drove home after the meeting, those golden eyes came to mind. Those eyes stayed on me, unwavering and still. Maybe it knew. Maybe it saw the same thing in me that I saw in it—a survivor, battered but not beaten. A sign that even when we fall, there is always someone willing to carry us home.

YEARS OF A.A.

Tradition Five: Each group has but one primary purpose—to carry its message to the alcoholic who still suffers

1. Do I ever cop out by saying, "I'm not a group, so this or that Tradition doesn't apply to me"?
2. Am I willing to explain firmly to a newcomer the limitations of AA help, even if he gets mad at me for not giving him a loan?
3. Have I today imposed on any AA member for a special favor or consideration simply because I am a fellow alcoholic?
4. Am I willing to twelfth-step the next newcomer without regard to who or what is in it for me?
5. Do I help my group in every way I can to fulfill our primary purpose?
6. Do I remember that AA old-timers, too, can be alcoholics who still suffer? Do I try both to help them and to learn from them?

Sunlight Over Maui

I never understood how heavy silence was until the day I cracked it wide open. Step Five asked me to drag every secret, lie, and twisted motive into the light, admitting "the exact nature of my wrongs" to God, to myself, and to another living, breathing human. No filters. No brand management. Just my inventory poured out on a rickety chair on a beach, while my sponsor nodded, unshakable.

I walked into that conversation clutching shame like a weighted vest. I walked out thirty pounds lighter. The Big Book calls it a spiritual "archway" into freedom; I call it the moment the lockbox in my chest finally clicked open and rust flakes scattered like confetti. The sunlight of the spirit, that phrase used to sound corny. Now it feels like Maui's dawn pouring through my ribs.

The Geography of Grace

Maui is more than a postcard in my recovery. It's proof I'm living on borrowed miracles. Each morning the trade winds slap salt on my skin, reminding me I get to be awake for this. The volcanoes stand patient against the horizon like old timers at a meeting, silent witnesses to the simple truth: stay humble, stay present, stay sober.

I used to chase tropical vacations to escape myself; now the island is a classroom where I finally sit still. Folding tees in the shop, chopping veggies in culinary school, praying under a palm at noon none of it feels small. Sobriety shrinks my ego but enlarges my life.

Gratitude, Unapologetic

I'm thankful for every painful syllable I spoke in Step Five, because those confessions stitched me back together stronger than any lie ever could. I'm thankful for my sponsor's quiet "me too," which demolished isolation in a single breath. And I'm thankful that recovery shipped me to Maui, not as a reward but as a responsibility: to live transparently, to serve, to let this island's Aloha seep into my bones and radiate out.

Anger, selfpity, false pride, they still tug at my ankles like rip currents. Step Five didn't make me bulletproof; it made me honest. When the undertow pulls, I plant my feet in the sand, call another drunk, and tell the truth quickly. That's the ongoing amends I make to myself: refuse the luxury of silence.

Tonight I'll stand on the shore, watch the sun grin its final orange grin, and whisper the same line that carried me through that beach bench: God, thank You for another day I don't have to lie about who I am. Because here on Maui; sober, seen, and unfinished, I've learned the greatest luxury isn't anger or acclaim. It's the clean freedom of nothing left to hide.

step 5

"We admitted to God, to ourselves, and to another human being, the exact nature of our wrongs."

After a fearless look, deep within my being, a lot of flash backs, old memories I was seeing, take most shit to the grave, between myself and God, admitting to another human, feels kind of odd, my wrongs are many, left tons of scars, they need to be released sober, not with whiskey in bars, exact nature of my past, what God could forgive? I'd I don't admit the sin, how can I live, to finally be free, to live without fear, no more cravings, not even beer, life is short, I am forever free, all thanks to AA, for saving a drink like me.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Alcoholics Anonymous to Celebrate 90 Years of Recovery at 2025 International Convention in Vancouver, Canada, July 3–6

(NEW YORK, NY) — April 16, 2025 — Alcoholics Anonymous (A.A.) will bring together tens of thousands of members and guests from around the world, July 3–6, 2025, for its International Convention in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, to mark the Fellowship's 90th anniversary.

Held every five years, the event celebrates the founding of A.A. in 1935, when one alcoholic reached out to another with a message of hope—and a new way of life. Since then, A.A. has grown to a global community of more than 1.6 million members in more than 180 countries, helping individuals from all walks of life recover from alcoholism through one-on-one support and shared experience.

The International Convention promises to be one of the largest-ever convention hosted by the city of Vancouver. Events will take place at the Vancouver Convention Centre and BC Place Stadium. They include:

- A huge Block Party Thursday night to kick off the festivities featuring music, dancing, and joyful fellowship.
- An opening ceremony in which A.A. members from more than 80 countries carry flags that represent A.A.'s presence within their borders.
- Three "Big Meetings" that will fill BC Place Stadium, as all attendees gather for some of the largest A.A. meetings in the world.
- An "Old Timers" meeting where A.A. members with long-term sobriety are invited to share their experience, strength, and hope.
- More than 250 meetings, panels, and workshops in a variety of languages.
- Hospitality Suites hosted by groups from around the world.

What is Intergroup?

Maui A.A. Intergroup is a committee of representatives from A.A.® groups in Maui County. Each group has the right and is encouraged to elect an Intergroup Representative to carry their group conscience to the Intergroup meeting held each month. Intergroup provides services for all groups which would be too much for individual groups to handle by themselves. Much of this work is coordinated through Central Office.
